Worst burglary rate in London, and double capital average

By Lucy Purdy

HARINGEY has been named and shamed as London's hotspot for domestic burglaries – with a break-in rate double the capital's average.

According to Home Office figures, 30 in 1,000 homes in Haringey were burgled last year, which is twice the London average of 18 homes per 1,000. The borough has the fourth-worst rate in the UK and topped the poll in London, with neighbouring Enfield coming in second with a rate of 26 break-ins per 1,000 homes. There were a total of 2,870 homes burgled in Haringey in 2008/9, according to the statistics unearthed by the Conservative Party.

Although Borough Commander Dave Grant admitted the figures "appear disappointing," he pointed out that the rate of domestic burglaries had actually dropped by 10.9 per cent since last year.

Chief superintendent Grant said: "Burglary is a priority crime for the borough and we are working hard to disrupt offenders by carrying out a range of intelligence-led activity including the execution of search warrants, pro-active targeting of known burglars, delivering crime prevention information to residents, stop and search and anti-burglary patrols.

"However, we need the community's help and would remind people of the importance of home security."

He added that the force was working with other organisations, particularly Haringey Council, to identify long-term hotspots for burglary. The wards of Harringay and Crouch End, with their high housing density and many flats, are particular hotspots for domestic burglary within the borough.

Councillor Ron Aitken, Liberal Democrat spokesman for crime, acknowledged that burglary is "very traumatic" for victims but said the police and council were working hard to combat the problem.

He said: "They are now taking DNA routinely, which is working, and the council-funded robbery car is also being successful which means victims are driven round to try to catch the criminals. This has taken a lot of street criminals off the streets so they are no longer hanging around in the day to burgle people's houses while they are at work.

"We need action to get police out on the beat."

"The fact that we're so high up the table is the reason substantial resources have been put in."

Nationally, shadow home secretary Chris Grayling blamed the recession and drug-fuelled crime for what is the first increase in domestic burglaries since 2003.

He added: "We desperately need real action to get police away from filling in forms at their desk in police stations and out on to the beat tackling the problem."

Unemployment project is making for happy families

LUCY YOUNG

A UNIQUE project designed to propel families in Northumberland Park back into the job market is gathering pace, ten months after it was established.

The Families Into Work scheme is currently helping about 60 families in the area with CV-writing, interview skills and in solving a whole host of other problems which may be holding them back from paid employment. Created under the principle that one person returning to work can have a knock-on effect on others in the same household, manager Sharon Bolton said the scheme had already "changed the dynamic" in scores of homes in a ward which has the highest number of unemployed families in Haringey.

"One family we are helping includes three adult sons and a mother," said Sharon. "They were all inactive for a very long time before they came to us."

"Now, the mother is doing an apprenticeship, one son has registered to return to college and another has an interview with Sainsbury's. Now, they are all more confident and more empowered."

Veering away from a "one-size-fits-all" approach, Families Into Work receives referrals from Jobcentre Plus and other professionals as well as residents hearing of it via word of mouth.

Its service is limited to those with Northumberland Park postcodes where there is also a high proportion of single-parent families, young parents and people who have left school with few or no qualifications.

"We try to help them be assertive and build confidence too," added Sharon.

"We help them realise what they're good at and we look at the other barriers. Sometimes there are reasons such as childcare, housing, debt or illness which they may not be getting proper help for. So we talk to GPs, schools, housing officers – the whole picture – and draw up family action plans."

The fact they are on the scheme means people have asked for help, so generally have a positive attitude, according to Sharon. However the recession has caused some to doubt their chances more than usual.

She said: "Some people who, 18 months ago, were thinking about changing their lives by going back to work, are now put off. They're unsure about how they'll find a job when there are other people who are better qualified than them. They're thinking 'why should I go for a job when I have heard on the radio this morning that so many people are out of work?'"

"But we can help them."

For Sharon and the two family support officers in her team, working with so many people at once is hard work.

"But it's rewarding," she said. "It's fantastic when you hear someone has got a job because you know it is not just them who will benefit but the whole family."

Communion is adapted on public health grounds as a teenager is struck down by H1N1 virus

Priests advised against sharing of wine amid swine flu fear

By Lucy Purdy

COMMUNION wine is being dropped from Haringey's Anglican church services in an attempt to curb the spread of swine flu.

Priests across London have received letters from the Archdeacon of Hackney, Dr Lyle Dennen, advising them to stop serving wine on the grounds of public health.

Wood Green team vicar, Reverend

Robert Wilkinson, confirmed that church-goers in the borough were currently only being offered the sacrament wafer and following the advice.

He said: "We received an email strongly recommending us not to share the consecrated wine and only give the congregation the host bread."

"So this is what we have done since last Sunday."

"Members of the congregation have been largely supportive. I explained that it's not as if we aren't giving communion properly."

"The doctrine of concomitance says that, when you take communion, Christ's presence is within both the bread and wine equally."

"In communion the priest gives the wine to the congregation and then drinks the rest, so I've been subjecting myself to germs for years!"

"This is more of a precaution and comfort to the congregation – I just want people to come to church."

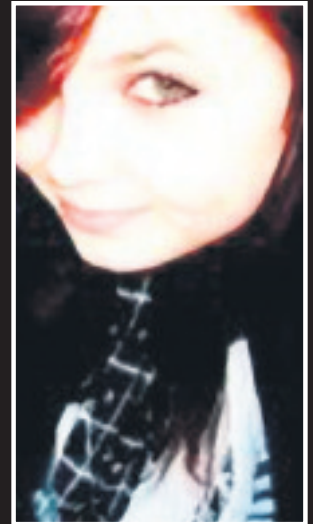

Reverend Bruce Bridgewood, from St Peter-le-Poer Church, in Albion Avenue, Muswell Hill, believes the advice is more about the church "being seen" to respond to swine flu.

He said: "I think the combination of alcohol and the gold or silver chalice should knock bacteria on the head."

Schoolgirl is hospitalised in Athens

A SCHOOLGIRL from Highgate is seriously ill in hospital in Greece after developing swine flu.

Natasha Newman, 16, was admitted to the Penteli Children's Hospital in Athens after her condition became critical as she holidayed on the island of Cephalonia.

Natasha, who just completed her GCSE exams at the Gordonstoun public school in Elgin, Scotland, is thought to have developed a dangerously high temperature and breathing difficulties after contracting the H1N1 strain in the UK.

Her parents, who live in Highgate, are at her bedside in Greece. A hospital spokesman said: "Her condition is the same."

"It has not improved or deteriorated. For the moment, we have a situation which is serious but stable."

heard from her years and didn't shot dead or sold'

LUCY PURDY speaks to photographer Dana Popa about the underbelly of sex trafficking

A DOCUMENTARY photographer has published a new book of photos which lays bare the brutal world of sex trafficking.

Romanian-born Dana Popa, from Muswell Hill, has spent two years finding out about international prostitution – a multi-billion dollar industry in which women, often from former Communist countries in eastern Europe, are tricked or forced into working as sex slaves. In researching what is widely regarded as the most profitable illegal trade in the world, the 32-year-old was granted access to many women, both in their native countries and in the UK, who had become trapped in and dehumanised by the sex trade.

Dana's hard work has finally culminated in a book entitled Not Natasha, which accompanies an exhibition of the same name currently on show at the Photofusion gallery in Brixton.

She said a desire to "tell the stories" of the women she met had propelled her through what was an often harrowing journey.

"To me, this book is like the diary of these women and seemed the best way to put together my work showing the many different sides of the matter – it is like a complete story," she explained.

"I travelled to Moldova which, being one of the poorest countries, is exploited by traffickers and is one of the main suppliers of sex slaves. People there are trying to escape poverty, they might come from broken families or they want to live the 'western dream'.

"They are really hoping to have a better life, so it is very easy to trick women from there.

"Some of the girls are 14 or 16 years old and may never have left their village before. They know the woman who sells the bread in their village, the person that brings them the post and sometimes the traffickers get someone close to them, who they trust, to make the offer of a job abroad.

"I met these women and asked them questions before I took their photographs. And they'd tell me their stories."

After these "often emotional" encounters, Dana chose to tell the stories in her photos by focusing on the shadows and empty spaces here and in their native countries.

"I looked at their families and the shadows and traces of their presence as well as the spaces in which they were held. One girl took me to where she worked in Soho. The photography itself took very little time and I didn't want to disturb them too much. I would just try and get them to accept me and understand what I was doing.

"One woman hadn't heard from her daughter for seven years and didn't know if she had been shot dead or sold. It was very emotional."

DANA met another girl from Moldova who was trafficked to the UK but was then deported after being found working illegally in a brothel. Her tale encapsulates the cruel cycle of coercion and dependence common to so many of these women.

She explained: "When she got back, she felt as though she didn't belong to herself any more because everybody had taken advantage of her body. So she decided to come back and work as a prostitute again."

The collection of photographs was called Not Natasha because Natasha is the "nickname" commonly given by pimps to girls from eastern European countries. Back home, the name has become a byword for someone who sells her body for sex.

Dana hopes the book, which has been circulated to organisations campaigning against sex trafficking, will tell the women's stories and convey the sheer dehumanisation of life as a trafficked sex slave.

"Many of these women, if they were let out on to the streets, would come back because prostitution has become their way of life. Many are put on drugs and alcohol and beaten in front of the other women. The pimps have many ways of keeping them there.

"Normally they are told: 'I brought you for $800 or $1,200 and once you work for me for this money, you are free to go'.

"But although they work, when he's finished he will just sell her on to another pimp."

As well as telling their stories through her pictures, to Dana, the book also represents the aspirations which lead many of the naive and vulnerable women into the sex industry.

She said: "It is like their passport. They think it is key to their escape from poverty but actually, it is the key to the door they get locked behind."

Police call time on drinkers who 'may' do wrong

POLICE are making use of a relatively new law by ordering street drinkers to stay away from Wood Green town centre – even if they have not yet committed a crime.

Under the Violent Crime Reduction Act 2006, officers have the power to order people they believe are "likely to" commit crime, acts of disorder or anti-social behaviour from the Hollywood Green area for up to 48 hours.

In the past week, Noel Park Safer Neighbourhoods Team has served 11 notices in a bid to rid the streets of people drinking alcohol in public.

Sergeant Neil Billany said his team's actions had received a "very positive" response from members of the public. He said: "The people that are required to leave the area are those we believe are responsible for anti-social behaviour. Members of the public are noticing a reduction in anti-social behaviour as a result of these new powers and the other work we are involved in to tackle this priority crime."

The team decided to use the legislation for the first time in Wood Green after receiving complaints from residents and business-owners about the level of anti-social behaviour there. In the first week of using the legislation, a 56-year-old man was arrested and charged and another arrested and cautioned after they breached the conditions of the stay-away order.

Sgt Billany added: "We continue to police the alcohol control zone, which covers the whole of Noel Park ward and means a police officer or PCSO can prevent anyone drinking alcohol if they are behaving anti-socially."

Gerard McGrath, chairman of Noel Park safer neighbourhood panel, said: "The team has made considerable progress in dealing with anti-social street drinkers. We all hope this will reduce or put an end to this social nuisance which affects residents, workers and visitors."

Thirsty for a taste of communist irony? Stalin's wine for sale at £19.50 a pop (and that's per shot, not bottle)

By Lucy Purdy

DRINKERS with a taste for a bold red can sample wine from the cellar of notorious dictator Joseph Stalin at a pub in Highgate.

For £19.50 a shot, customers at The Wrestlers, in North Road, can taste what the communist leader may have drunk himself and sup a newly stocked 1945 Massandra Madeira.

The wine, which was kept at Stalin's summer house in the Crimea, was bought at auction in the 1980s by local wine expert and distiller Ian Hart who has now supplied it to the pub. Mr Hart acknowledged that the dictator's reign of terror certainly "plays on your mind" while sampling it.

He said: "It tastes like a very bold, pale tawny Madeira. It has a fantastic bouquet, a chestnutty aroma.

"Someone in Russia decided to make some money by flogging off part of Stalin's cellar. Sotheby's managed to get legal title to the wine and I bought ten bottles in an auction. I didn't have much money but I bought as much as I could afford.

"It certainly plays on your mind when you drink it but, of course, it wasn't necessarily touched by the monster himself. It was probably made by workers toiling hard in the vineyards around there and would have been harvested around the time of victory in Europe. 1945 was a fantastic year for wine across Europe and this tastes pretty good."

Landlord Martin Harley said he was "more than happy" to stock the unusual wine.

"We are trying to encourage more people who like their wine, as well as our regulars, who are really going for it," he explained.

"I've always been fascinated by all sorts of wine so I'm really pleased we've got it on sale."

Palace plans need routes

On the up:
The Great Hall hopes for an increase in capacity

Transport holds key to extra event proposals

By Lucy Purdy

PLANS to increase the capacity of Alexandra Palace's Great Hall by 40 per cent must take into account the transport implications, says a Muswell Hill campaign group.

Haringey Council is considering a licensing application by The Alexandra Palace Trading Company to increase the capacity of the Great Hall from 7,250 to 10,250. They hope to establish it as a competitor to the capital's other big-hitting music destinations, including the O2 Arena and Wembley Arena, saying it would give the palace "more pulling power".

While cautiously welcoming the plan, Ernie Nice, from The Muswell Hill Metro Group, said getting concert-goers to and from the venue has historically been a problem and needs to be carefully considered.

He said: "Some residents get upset about the amount of extra parking that takes place in surrounding roads."

"We have been campaigning since the 1980s to re-establish the rail link between Alexandra Palace and Finsbury Park via Highgate - it has been an ongoing and thankless task."

"The company's argument that this is important for the area seems reasonable. The palace is part-and-parcel of north London."

Groups including Blur, Franz Ferdinand, Arctic Monkeys and the White Stripes have performed there in recent years and the palace's managing director Rebecca Kane said it had a "long and proven" track record in staging successful live music events.

She said: "Extra capacity would give us much more pulling power in terms of attracting high-calibre promoters and performers. We hope that by increasing our capacity, even by just a couple of thousand, we will attract an even better class of big-name stars."

NATIONAL PANDEMIC FLU SERVICE

www.direct.gov.uk/pandemicflu

INFORMATION 0800 1 513 513

TREATMENT 0800 1 513 100

WHAT ARE FLU FRIENDS?

Flu friends are family members, friends or neighbours who can help you if you get ill. They can contact the National Pandemic Flu Service on your behalf to assist with the assessment, and if required they can collect antivirals from a local collection point as well as help with food and over-the-counter medicines. This will avoid you having to leave your home and prevent you spreading the virus within your community, so it's advised that you nominate at least one friend now and think about others who could do this for you.

To use the National Pandemic Flu Service and to collect antivirals from a local collection point, your flu friend will need their own and the patient's ID, such as driver's licence or credit/debit card, as well as the authorisation number. A full list of IDs will be available from the online service or the call centre.

If you think you have swine flu, stay at home and get advice by contacting the National Pandemic Flu Service at www.direct.gov.uk/pandemicflu or call 0800 1 513 100. A textphone service is available on 0800 1 513 200 for people who are deaf or hard of hearing.

However, if you're pregnant, or have a serious underlying condition, or have a sick child under one year old, or you or your child's condition suddenly gets much worse, or your condition is still getting worse after 7 days (5 days for a child), you should contact your doctor. If your doctor decides that you need antivirals, you will still need your flu friend to collect them for you from a local collection point. Your flu friend will still need their own and the patient's ID plus the authorisation from your doctor.

Flu. Protect yourself and others.

Seduction scenes on Soho's streets

JONATHAN LOVETT
previews N10's show Don Juan In Soho

AN A-Level exam piece is set to take Edinburgh by storm this month in a radical reworking of a classic tale.

Newly formed N10 Productions, comprising staff and students from Fortismere School, is performing Don Juan In Soho at the Edinburgh Festival.

The Patrick Marber play – a modern version of the Don Juan legend – inspired drama teacher and director Lauren Overs when it premiered at the Donmar Warehouse three years ago.

"It's a very naughty, sexy show and Rhys Ifans was great in the part," said the 28-year-old. "But our Don Juan gives him a run for his money and we've made it a much more physical piece with the boys learning how to pick each other up and throw each other around!"

The show received a "phenomenal" reaction with a brief run at the Muswell Hill school before Lauren was approached by one of the cast member's parents, Piers Johnson, who runs Oilfield Production Consultants.

Pairing up: Henry Hankin and Rowan Kassab, Guido Cavaciuti and Hannah Johnson in a modern take on a lothario's story

"He said we should perform it at the Edinburgh Festival and agreed to sponsor us," said Lauren. "We wouldn't be able to stage it in Edinburgh otherwise."

"It's so expensive to take a show up there, and the hope now is that the excellent students in the cast are spotted by talent scouts and a producer spots us and agrees to take the show on tour!"

● Don Juan In Soho runs at C Cubed, Lawnmarket, Edinburgh, from August 23 to August 31. For ticket details call the box office at 0845 260 1234 or go to www.CtheFestival.com

Killer's spree rein

Mesrine: Killer Instinct (15)

Dir: Jean-Francois Richet
Starring: Vincent Cassel, Cecile De France, Gerard Depardieu

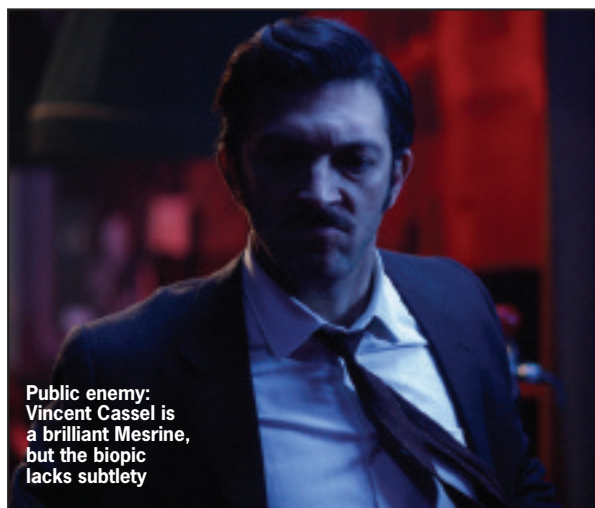

JACQUES MESRINE was an extraordinary character and I'm amazed I've never heard of him before.

But thanks to two hours of this visceral, pumped-up biopic it feels like I've been mugged by the gangster, been beaten about the head and had screamed into my face: "C'EST MOI!"

The "man of a thousand faces" enjoyed the rare distinction of being Public Enemy No.1 in France and Canada after a string of bank robberies and abductions in the 1960s and '70s. But what made him something of a folk hero was the élan with which he carried out his dubious career – not only breaking out of prisons but returning to attack them and then giving interviews to the press on the arm of another beautiful woman.

One film, indeed, could not do justice to his murderous celebrity. So – in the same audacious spirit – director Richet has split his 20-year crime spree into two films, of which this (partly named after his autobiography L'Instinct de Mort) is the bloody first.

Investing the four-hour saga with a grim inevitability, we begin at the end of Mesrine's life (Cassel appears in virtually every scene and is captivating), gunned down in a Parisian street, and flashback to the start of his history of violence in the Algerian War circa 1956.

Public enemy: Vincent Cassel is a brilliant Mesrine, but the biopic lacks subtlety

Returning to his parents' Paris home, he hooks up with an old mate who introduces him to crime boss Guido (a bulked-up, still brilliant Gerard Depardieu) and the rudimentary skills for a successful killing career. Then we're grabbed by the seat of our pants for a whirlwind tour of his "best" bits including a wonderfully tense prison breakout followed by a crazy, near-suicidal attack on the same building.

But part of the problem is the biopic consists solely of bold primary colour highlights, without the subtler brush strokes and observations of character to make this an exercise for the head as well as the hard-beating heart. Perhaps Part Two will rectify the balance to create a modern classic.

by Jonathan Lovett

Now Showing...

The Taking of Pelham 123 (15)

Cameras whiz, the soundtrack throbs, John Travolta rages, but it's an inferior remake of the 1974 original, although Denzel Washington tries valiantly to hold it all together. Passable popcorn quaffing fare.

Moon (15)

David Bowie's son, Duncan Jones, follows his father into space with this trippy oddity and haunting meditation on alienation and solitude. Sam Rockwell delivers a compelling performance as a man living in isolation on the moon.

Brüno (18)

The most cringeworthy, pseudo-documentary laugh-riot of the year. Borat probably shades it but there are still enough hilarious set pieces from Sacha Baron Cohen as the camper-than-Christmas, "greatest Austrian since Hitler" fashion icon.

Harry Potter and the Half-Blood Prince (12A)

Teenage angst is the new magic at Hogwarts in part six of the outstanding film franchise. Love, laughter and thrills as the series gears up for its epic two-part finale as the darkness draws in...

Little chefs needed to make new menu

Restaurant News

JUNIOR Jamies and nascent Nigellas are being offered the chance to devise dishes for a new children's menu.

Table Table restaurant chain, which runs Inn On The Park in Enfield, is inviting children aged between eight and ten to work with chefs as part of its nationwide search for ten children to form a taster panel.

The lucky ten will each win a Nintendo DS games console and their choices will be served up at 107 Table Table restaurants.

The ten will be selected to join chefs for a tongue-tingling tasting session and – armed with their taste buds – will be presented with an assortment of dishes and soft drinks to cast their vote on. Their chosen items will be served at the Inn On The Park from next spring as a new children's menu.

"Our kids' menu is very popular with our younger diners and we want to make sure that our new menu is just as popular," said spokeswoman Sarah Simpson.

"We want to ensure that kids can choose from a range of tasty and nutritious dishes they will genuinely enjoy. We are looking forward to hearing their candid feedback."

● To be in with a chance of joining the taster panel, you will need to demonstrate culinary creativity, so send in your craziest recipe idea – whether it's ice-cream bolognese, exploding pizza pies or blueberry sausages and green mash! Enter before Friday at www.tabletable.co.uk

Recipe of the week

by Peter Tiley, chef and lecturer at Southgate College

Grilled Salmon Nicoise 4 Portions

200g New potatoes
150g French beans and tomatoes
4 Eggs
1 Bunch spring onions
75g Rocket
4 Salmon escalopes
Flat leaf parsley

Dressing
2 Anchovies
¼tsp Dijon mustard
25ml White wine vinegar
75ml Olive oil
Salt and pepper

1. Boil the new potatoes until tender. Cool down and halve.
2. Blanch and refresh the French beans. Roughly chop the tomatoes. Wash the rocket and cut the spring onions into strips. Hard boil the eggs, refresh and quarter.
3. Prepare the dressing.
4. At point of service season the salmon and place under a grill, presentation side up.
5. In a bowl, combine the vegetables and eggs, season and add a little dressing. Place into a salad bowl.
6. When the salmon is browned and tender, place on top of the salad and garnish with parsley.

CONDITIONS OF ACCEPTANCE FOR ALL ADVERTISEMENTS

Orders are accepted by the Publishers subject to the Standard Conditions agreed between the Newspaper Society and the Institute of Practitioners in Advertising. Save that:

- Advertisements are accepted on the conditions that (a) descriptions relating to goods are accurate and in no way contravene the provisions of the Trade Descriptions Act 1968, and the Fair Trading Act 1973, and (b) the copy complies with the British Code of Advertising Practice. Advertisements offering credit or hire facilities must conform to the Consumer Credit (Advertisements) Regulations 1980.
- 'Classified' Advertisers offering goods or service of a business, commercial or trade nature will, at the discretion of the Publishers, be deemed 'Trade Advertisers', and as such, must include their names in advertisements. A telephone number is an optional addition to these requirements and not an alternative.
- To comply with the Business Advertisements (Disclosure) Order 1977, Trade Advertisers must make it clear that they are selling goods in the course of business either by content, format, size or place of the advertisement or by including words such as 'trade', 'dealer', 'agent', 'wholesaler', 'TD' etc. in the advertisement.
- The Publishers accept no liability whatsoever for any loss or damage however caused arising out of:
 - (a) Any error, inaccuracy or omission in the printing or publishing of any advertisement;
 - (b) Any failure to publish an advertisement on the day / date or day / dates specified by the advertiser;
 - (c) Any delay in forwarding or omission to forward replies to box numbers to the Advertiser.
- The Publishers will endeavour to publish advertisements on the day / date or day / dates specified by the Advertiser but insertion days / dates cannot be guaranteed.
- Where shrinkage of advertisement occurs for whatever reasons the advertisement will be charged to the nearest full centimetre. This will NOT apply to the full-page advertisements, which remain full page even after shrinkage.
- The Publishers reserve the right to reject an advertisement or to vary it in any way they deem fit, at any time before publication, whether or not the advertisement has already been accepted for publication.
- Whilst every effort is made to minimise errors in advertisements, mistakes do sometimes occur. Advertisers or their agents should therefore check their advertisements and inform us of any errors immediately. Responsibility cannot be accepted for more than one incorrect insertion. Typographical or minor changes, which do not affect the value of the advertisement, do not qualify for republication or allowances.
- All gross advertising rates (except classified line and semi-display) are subject to and include a 0.1% Advertising Standards Board of Finance surcharge, payable by the advertisers to help finance the self-regulatory control system administered by the Advertising Standards Authority.
- All rates quoted are subject to VAT at the rate currently in force at the time the advertisement appears.
- Should the rate for advertisements be altered the price for remaining insertions shall be revised accordingly or the publishers shall have the right to cancel the unexpired portion of the order.
- The placing of an advertisement order will be deemed an acceptance of these conditions.
- Account facilities are granted at the discretion of the Company.
- All accounts must be settled within the terms agreed by the Company and the Customer.
 - (1) Should an advertiser be in breach of the agreed terms they shall be entitled to levy a 10% surcharge on the value of the whole debt in respect of accounts with terms of more than 30 days, and any discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed.
 - (2) Regular monthly accounts that are in breach of the agreed terms will pay an interest rate of 6% above the current bank of England base rate for each month that the account is overdue and discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed. Should Legal action be required the interest will be charged in accordance with the County Court Act 1984.
- Where an advertiser instructs / appoints an advertising agent to act on their behalf, the advertiser will remain jointly and severally liable for payment in respect for an advertisement should the appointed agent fail to pay. For the avoidance of doubt, the agent acts for the advertiser and not for the publisher with the agent being responsible for notifying the advertiser of this liability.
- All queries must be notified, preferably in writing to the accounts department of the publisher within 7 days of the invoice date.
- All digital services are maintained in partnership with the publishers' hosting service providers. Every effort is made to ensure the continuity of these services, but some occasional technical downtime beyond the publishers control may occur. The publisher and its associated companies shall be under no liability if the production and distribution of web services is delayed or prevented by any cause beyond the control of the publisher.
- The Publisher may provide voucher copies for published advertisements in electronic form, which should be subject to certain criteria. Further information is available on request.
- The copyright of advertisements produced wholly or partially by the Publishers belong to the Publishers. Advertisers may not reproduce such advertisements without the Publishers' consent.
- Box Numbers
Boxes are open for the receipt of bona fide answers and are not available for distribution of trade canvassing matter. Original testimonials, goods, cash, stamps or payments of any kind must not be enclosed. A box number and postal address are charged as part of the advertisement, i.e. Box No., centre address. There is no charge for forwarding replies. Box numbers alone are not available for use in 'Trade' advertisements, other than Employment and Business Opportunities.
- Holiday & Travel Category
All advertising must contain the name of the advertiser, phone number alone are not permitted.
- Data Protection
The service you have requested may require us to carry out a credit search at a credit-referencing agency, which will record the fact that a search has been made. We shall not share your information with other lenders and credit reference agencies. However, we will only use the information from these searches to make credit-granting decisions and, if necessary, for fraud prevention or tracing debtors.
- Data controller will use your information for administration and analysis. We may share your information with other members of the Haringey Group Newspaper companies or with carefully selected third parties. We, or they, may send you details of other goods and services, which may be of interest to you. The information may be provided by letter, telephone or other reasonable means of communication. Calls may be recorded or monitored for training purposes.
- Special conditions apply with regard to the advertising of adult services, which are outlined to all persons submitting such advertisements.

BENT SEALS MOVE

By Lee Husson

DAREN BENT has finally put his Tottenham nightmare to an end as Sunderland and Spurs thrashed out a deal worth up to £15million for the striker.

The occasional England frontman agreed personal terms and passed a medical on Wearside yesterday after Sunderland increased their original £14m offer, which included £9m up front plus add-ons.

It puts to bed a frustrating transfer saga for Bent, who was fined £120,000 last week and forced to issue an apology after lashing at out chairman Daniel Levy on his Twitter page over the hold-up in negotiations.

Black Cats boss Steve Bruce had also threatened to pull the plug on the move after claiming that he twice thought the deal was done.

Bent was finally able to complete his switch to the Stadium of Light after Spurs manager Harry Redknapp deemed him surplus to requirements with the arrival of Peter Crouch for £9m last week.

"His record in the Premier League is outstanding. I think he's scored about 50 goals in 100-odd appearances, which is a phenomenal return," Sunderland assistant manager Eric Black said.

"He's a big name, he's somebody who has proved he's a Premier League striker and his return in goals per game is exceptional."

Meanwhile Redknapp is fearful that defender Jonathan Woodgate may be forced to undergo yet more surgery on his troublesome groin injury.

"Woodgate is struggling and I think he may have to have an operation," conceded the boss.

Frustration over: Bent finally got his wish of a move to Sunderland

Heavy defeat in friendly

HARINGEY BOROUGH were soundly beaten 4-1 by Uxbridge in their last pre-season friendly on Saturday as they gear up for the start of their Spartan Premier Division campaign this weekend.

Manager Tom Loizou will be hoping for a much-improved display when Borough entertain Welwyn Garden City at Coles Park on Saturday after Uxbridge seized the lead early and went on to record a comfortable win.

David Warner fired the visitors into the lead after 20 minutes with a ferocious 35-yard strike which keeper Nick Christofi couldn't keep out, before the same player was hauled down in the penalty box, allowing Ryan O'Toole to smash home the resulting spot-kick.

Borough struggled to muster many chances on goal during the first half, but Melvin Thompson-Klass did pull a goal back against the run of play.

Lloyd Opara stormed down the right hand side and his low cross was swept home by the midfielder.

The second half continued in much the same vein as Uxbridge maintained their dominance, and Warner was on hand to restore the two-goal cushion when he fired into the top corner.

Simeon Howell completed the rout minutes later when he planted a powerful header past Christofi.
